Waterfield said he was delighted to be at the conference because, "I am glad to be away from Frankfort. Everyone up there is asking for something."

State Highway Commissioner Robert Humphreys also addressed the group. He said that with the new merit system, engineers can stay out of politics and not be fired without just cause.

Humphreys added that this administration has established the state's greatest highway program.

Engineering Dean D. V. Terrell told the conference earlier Wednesday that "Kentucky has a wornout system of highways." He said one of the reasons for this is "that we are hauling everything on the road."

He said a lot of engineering talent has been going to waste, and urged the engineers and contractors at the conference to help provide more scholarships. "Much of our engineering talent is being misused or hoarded up," he said.

Terrell described and traced the development of the Kentucky Department of Highways from its birth in 1912 to the present.

Six UK fraternities are on social probation for academic reasons this semester.

Alpha Tau Omega, Phi Delta Theta, Phi Sigma Kappa, Pi Kappa Alpha, Tau Kappa Epsilon and Zeta Beta Tau were placed on probation by the dean of men because they failed to attain a scholastic standing equal to the all men's average last semester.

·These six fraternities averaged less than 2.21, the all men's average. The all fraternity average, however, was 2.23, slightly above the all men's average.

Phi Kappa Tau ranked first scholastically with an average of 2.41. Triangle and Delta Tau Delta tied for second and third place with standings of 2.37. Active members averages were well above the all men's average with an overall standing of 2.39, while pledges averaged 1.96. Pledges to Delta Tau Delta were the only pledges who made their standing, with 2.22.

Dean of Men L. L. Martin emphasized that no fraternity made a standing of less than 2.0, which is considered average work for college students.

Stars In The Night To Be Wednesday

More than 200 UK women will be honored Wednesday night, March 27, at the annual "Stars in the Night" program scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

"Stars in the Night" is sponsored by the Women's Administrative Council. Betty Jo Fritz, president of the Council, will be mistress of ceremonies.

Two Operas To Be Given March 28-30

Two operas, "Trial by Jury" and "The Old Maid and The Thief," are to be presented in the Guignol Theatre on March 28, 29, 30, at 8 p.m. by a joint effort of the Music Department Opera Workshop and Guignol Players.

"Trial by Jury" is a Gilbert and Sullivan comedy which burlesques the English trial system.

"The Old Maid and the Thief" is a modern comedy by Menotti. It deals with an old maid who takes a thief into her household. The conflict is between the old maid's desire to "keep a man around the house," and her conscience which wants her to turn the thief in to the police.

The two operas are still in rehearsal and the actors who will play the leading roles haven't been selected. Prof. Kivinieni, director of University Choir, said details will be given next week as to who will take the leads.

Tickets are to be 50 cents for students and a dollar for adults. The combined programs will last about two hours.

Cooperstown

Cooperstown residents who are not going to summer school may sub-lease their apartments, the dean of men announced this week.

Anyone wishing to sub-lease should file his name and the date he will be leaving for the summer at the dean's office as soon as possible. The office will notify him of summer students who are prospective renters.

Agreements may then be made exclusive of the dean's office. The rent, however, may not be more than the standard price.

Any students expecting to move out of their apartments without sub-leasing must re-apply for an apartment for this fall. This should be done immediately, as they will be placed on the regular waiting list.

A 30-day notice must be filed by those who intend to move out.

(4) a leader must have some amount of innate ability, and "at least average" intelligence, (5) a person must take the lead on his own accord-he cannot wait to be pushed.

Dickey told the representatives of two sponsoring groups that "you have the opportunity within your organizations to furnish the type of leadership we need."

Saying that in the past, we have too often "muddled through" many problems, Dickey told the group that campus leadership was "in need of revitalization." "The idea seems to be now," he continued, "that to be a leader, you must take the opposite side of every question. NOW YOU CAN BE YOUNGER THAN SHE IS!

It's a scientific fact that girls reach emotional maturity earlier than boys. For this reason freshman girls decline to make romantic alliances with freshman boys.

Thus, the freshman boys are left dateless, and many's the night the entire freshman dorm sobs itself to sleep. An equally damp situation exists among upper-class girls. With upperclassmen being snapped up by freshman girls, the poor upper-class girls are reduced to dreary, manless evenings of Scrabble and home permanents.

There is a solution for this morbid situation - a very simple solution. Why don't the two great have-not groups find solace with one another?

True, there is something of an age differential, but that need not matter. Take the case of Albert Payson Sigafoos and Eustacia Vve.

Albert Payson, a freshman in sand and gravel at Vanderbilt University, was walking across campus one day, weeping softly in his loneliness. Blinded by tears, he stumbled upon the supine form of Eustacia Vye, a senior in wicker and raffia, who was collapsed in a wretched heap on the turf.

"Why don't you watch where you're going, you squirt?" said Eustacia peevishly.

"I'm sorry, lady," said Albert Payson and started to move on. But suddenly he stopped, struck by an inspiration. "Lady," he said, "you're miserable because you can't get a date. So am I. So why don't we date each other?"

"Surely you jest!" cried Eustacia, looking with scorn upon his youthful head and body.

"Oh, I know I'm younger than you are," said Albert Payson, "but that doesn't mean we can't find many splendid things to do together."

"Like what?" asked Eustacia.

"Well," said Albert Payson, "we could get a third and play some one-o-cat."

"Bah!" said Eustacia, grinding her teeth.

"All right then," said Albert Payson, "we could go down to the pond and skip some stones and maybe catch a few frogs.'

"Ugh!" said Eustacia, shuddering her entire length. "How about some run-sheep-run?" he suggested.

"You are callow, green, and immature," said Eustacia, "and I will thank you to absent yourself at once!"

Sighing, Albert Payson lit a cigarette and started away.

"Stay!" cried Eustacia.

"Was that," she asked, "a Philip Morris you just lit?"

"What else?" said Albert Payson.

"Then you are not immature!" she cried, clasping him to her clavicle. "For to smoke Philip Morris is the very essence of wisdom, incontrovertible proof that you know rich, natural pleasure from pale, poor substitutes! Albert Payson, I am yours!"

And today they are married and run one of the biggest wicker and raffia establishments in Blue Earth, Minnesota. D Max Shulman, 1957

Freedom Hall--Boom Or Bust?

While listening to, and reading about, the recent State High School Basketball Tournament in Louisville, we were a trifle uncertain at times as to exactly what the feature attraction was-the players, as they strived for the championship trophy, or the various Lexington and Louisville sports authorities verbally debating the merits of Freedom Hall, where the tournament was staged.

As we listened to accounts of the games over the local radio stations, we became firmly convinced that Freedom Hall, the new, 18,000-seat stadium at the Kentucky State Fairgrounds, must be somewhat on a par with an oversized cow barn -an image fostered in no small measure by the criticisms of the local announcers and by the comments of the "impartial" interviewees they had on their shows from time to time. But, as we turned to the columns of Earl Ruby, sports editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, we received the distinct impression that Freedom Hall must be the most magnificient edifice ever constructed to house basketball action.

Since we didn't have the good fortune to see the tournament, it is impossible for us to judge the validity of any of the evaluations of Freedom Hall that were advanced. But it seems patently obvious that both sides in the controversy could not have been correct. And by their none-too-subtle attempts to sway their audiences, each side, at times, resorted to obvious exaggerations that approached asininity.

Mr. Billy Thompson, assistant sports editor of the Lexington Herald, perhaps reached the pinnacle of "constructive" criticism Saturday when, in a radio interview, he entertained his audience with an account of how the lack of an available doctor in Louisville early Saturday morning nearly resulted in the death of one of his acquaintances. If this is true, and we assume it is, it is certainly a legitimate complaint. But it hardly appears to be in the best of taste to recount such an incident as a basis for why the state tournament should be moved back to Lexington-which apparently Mr. Thompson was attempting to do, since, in the next breath, he began to elaborate on the popular subject of "What's Wrong with Freedom Hall and Louisville." Along the way, he dismissed the "minor" matter of additional revenue gained by holding the tournament at Louisville by means of a very original statement -"Money isn't everything", cleverly observed Mr. Thompson.

We seem to recall that one of the prime reasons advanced for moving the tournament from Louisville to Lexington in 1951 was that the Coliseum could seat many more persons than the Jefferson County Armory, then the site of the tournament. There weren't too many slurs cast on the "filthy lucre" then.

In the meantime, Mr. Ruby was filling his column with all bits of praise of Freedom Hall he could eke out. Perhaps his greatest achievement was devoting his entire column last Saturday to the writings of one Allan Read, who, in showing his gratitude for such a magnanimous gesture, gleefully used the space to all but sanctify Freedom Hall.

Mr. Thompson, apparently not satisfied with the media of the air waves, was also busily heaping more coals on the fire with such newsy items as how certain coaches were telling him to "pour it on" in his column-meaning, of course, to apply said treatment to Freedom Hall and the city of Louisville. He didn't even like the Pinkerton men in the Louisville hotel corridors-another very logical reason for returning the tournament to Lexington.

And so, the arguments raged-becoming progressively silly, and immeasurably more irritating to true basketball fans who wanted nothing more than to hear and read accounts of the ball games.

Next year, we presume, the same issue will again be in the forefront. We would suggest, regardless of where the tournament may be held, that a little intelligent evaluation of the situation is always welcome. But we doubt very seriously if many listeners or readers were impressed, or had favorable comments about what they were forced to endure this year. The ball games are a lot more interesting.

'I Just Want To Play Ball'

Letters From The Readers

Wisdom Of Council

To the Editor:

Since returning to campus this year after several years' absence, I have been impressed by two new emphases in the behavior of college students in general. The first is the increasing desire on the part of the students to be independent-to make their own decisions, to run their own organizations without direction from the administration or other groups, and to direct their own private lives. This is an extremely mature attitude, one that should be praised.

However, in exerting their independence, the behavior of many students has shown another attitude which is so immature that it negates the maturity shown by independence. This is the second apparent new emphasis in the behavior of college students-the refusal to assume the responsibilities which accompany independence. Students who snickered behind their hands or laughed aloud in their rooms or in the grill when Dean Holmes warned them that their morality was being seriously questioned are some of those in this group. Obviously these students who are allowed the freedom and privilege of being on their own at night refuse to assume their responsibility to the University, the people of Lexington, their families and themselves of maintaining acceptable behavior in public.

Last week, however, the Kernel reported a notable exception to this general trend when it reported on the action taken by House Presidents' Council regarding later hours for women students. The action of this group seems wise in two respects. First, House Presidents' Council assumed the responsibility placed on it by the recent criticism of the women students at the University. It did so by rejecting a proposal which would allow the girls more freedom when some of them have not accepted the responsibility of the freedom they now have. Second, it refused to allow another campus organization, notably SGA, to overrule the decision that it, the elected governing body of the girls in residence, had made. House President's Council should be congratulated for its mature handling of this problem and for standing up under the fire of SGA, the Kernel and some thoughtless students. Also the Council wisely left the matter open to future discussion. Its members undoubtedly hope, as many other students do, that the ones who continue to give the University a bad name and thus prevent the others from receiving the privilege of later hours will soon assume their responsibility also.

SCA Testing Time

To the Editor:

I have been moved to put on paper some of my thoughts on this great controversy between the Student Government Association, the Kernel, and the House President's Council.

The last few weeks have seen a great deal. There have been many bitter words and the feet of many individuals have been stepped on. To those of us who are close to student government this is a testing time. It is a time when SGA is approaching a fork in the road. One path leads to the oblivion of being just another campus organization. The other follows the course of greatness. This is a time for serious thought. It is more than just a question of 1:00 permission. It is a time for understanding and tact.

I have tried to look at this question as objectively as possible. There has been a great deal of misunderstanding. This misunderstanding cannot be attributed to any one person or group. Some of it might lie in the lack of knowledge that exists in relation to the SGA constitution which was ratified by the students last December and also accepted by the faculty. The constitution specifically states that the SGA "... is to act as the responsible authority in relations pertaining to students and affeeting student organizations." The key here is "authority" and "student organizations." The position of the SGA on campus should be one of authority. It should have the right to deal with the problem of later hours as well as other matters which might arise from time to time. The methods which it may use might be wrong. The question can only be settled in one manner. The girls themselves must be given the free choice of yes or no. There must be no loopholes tied on to the question. The question of 1:30 permission should be handled separately. I believe in pure democracy whenever possible. I think Dean Holmes does also. And I think all the students in the University share this conviction

Our task has been set forth. To the SGA, I say it is your testing time so meet the test. To Dean Holmes, I say have faith in the girls themselves. To Harriet Hart and the House President's Council, I say give serious thought to all sides of this matter and disregard any personal friction that might have arisen. All of us have been partly wrong, but in the same light everyone concerned has meant well. SGA, Mrs. Holmes, the HPC, and all concerned must come together with understanding and settle this matter. Ultimately the final choice should be made by the girls themselves for they must live with this problem. It is our duty now to re-examine our own positions. Could we be wrong?

And take the old inter-class feuds for another example. Today, about all the strife that exists between classes is a feeble request for freshmen to wear beanies. But back around the first of the century, different classes got along like the Hatfields and the McCoys.

For instance, there was the time that the freshmen ran up a flag on the pole in front of the Administration Building and then cut the ropes. The sophomores not to be outdone, decided that it must come down. So standing at a safe distance from the mob of freshmen gathered at the base of the pole to protect their flag, the sophs calmly shot the flag down! Reports from the old timers say that it sounded like the battle of Bull

UK Was A Dream Of Our Ancestors

By JANE HARRISON

UK was a dream long before it was a reality. As early as 1776 our ancestors envisioned a state university such as we have today. Even while Kentucky was a part of Virginia, Thomas Jefferson passed a bill providing for the property for a university from the lands of former British subjects. However, the actual development of UK began its embryonic growth in the form of a small grammar school called Transylvania Seminary near Danville, Kentucky. It was soon moved to Lexington and held its 2 miles. The other three will cov- annual classic, the tug-of-war be- first commencement in April, 1790.

But on Jan. 1, 1799 Transyl- changed. On Sept. 19, 1859 "the vania Seminary and Kentucky Academy united and formed Transylvania University, another stage of development toward the birth of our university.

Twenty-seven year old Henry Clay taught law there from 1805 to 1807. In 1818 the first M.D. degree ever granted in the West was awarded to a Lexingtonian. Sectarianism again halted progress with Kentucky University losing its and resulted in the establishment separate identity and giving up its of Centre College. Under the direction of a new president in 1818 Transylvania entered its Golden Age. Enrollment increased from The time six or eight students 20 to 200 within five years. During the Civil War Transylvania regressed to a mere high school and was under the supervision of James K. Patterson. In 1863 the legislature would not permit the establishment of an Agricultural and Mechanical College so in 1865 Transylvania united historic name. On Oct. 2, 1865 KU began its first session in the old halls of Transylvania University.

Oct. 2, 1865 marks the actual birth of UK, but its gestation period from Thomas Jefferson to its first session was 86 years, and it showed remarkable growth from a small grammar school of 20 students in Danville to the present University of 7,000 students 172 years later. The University of Kentucky has at last become the

What Is A Newspaperman?

The following article appeared recently in the Breckinridge County Herald-News. It was written originally for The American Press, a monthly magazine for newspapers, by Alison Davis Oldham, the wife of a newspaperman, giving the woman's viewpoint on "What Is a Newspaperman?"

What is a newspaperman? He is a cross between a bundle of nerves and an heroic public servant. He is the People's Friend whom everybody is mad at; the gatherer of news who hasn't time to read his own mail; the power of the printed word encased in a fallible human frame.

The habitat of the newspaperman is wherever you may find him (and just try about dinner time!) but he is never far from a typewriter or a telephone. Anatomically, he is a unique creature, subsisting almost exclusively on caffein and nicotine; and well on his way to a fine case of ulcers before he's thirty. His habits tend to be primarily nocturnal from temperament fully as much as from necessity. And if by chance he ever does. get a quiet evening at home, then without fail the fire sirens blow or the phone rings, and you don't see him again for another five hours. He is constantly preoccupied when you try to talk to him about the trivia of his personal life, for his mind is a whirlpool of 36point heads, that error in Jones and Sweeney's classified, and where to dig up the dope on that story some local VIP was "not authorized to divulge."

A newspaperman is the crazy fool with the camera, out bareheaded in the season's worst storm, or crouching so close to the goal line he's going to get a cleat in his teeth any minute, or trying to herd the Ladies' Literary Circle into order so he can take their picture and get out of there. A newspaperman is the one remaining professional jack of all trades in our specialized society; for he is an expert typist, an amateur English teacher, a part-time salesman, an ad writer, office boy, charwoman, and creative artist. He has a working acquaintance with typesetting, political science, ornithology, the social register, addressographs, the who's who and taboos of all the organizations and lodges in town, the tax structure, photographic developing, juvenile delinquency, county fairs, furniture refinishing, and the philosophy of responsible journalism. He is an accomplished labor arbitrator and diplomat in his relations with the boys in the back shop. And-oh yes-he writes, too, of course.

A newspaperman is considered fair game for taking pot shots at by everyone in the community-the irate Women's Civic Uplift League because he didn't publish every detail of their goings-on, and the wrathful local politicians because he did publish theirs. And yet he is the guy who is supposed to be nice to everyone-from the little old lady who takes half an hour on the day the paper goes to press asking him to change her subscription from 92 Elm Street to 91 Elm Street, and the big advertiser whose special sale price was supposed to read $86 and somehow got in the paper as $186.

Underneath his traditionally hard exterior, the newspaperman is human, and as sensitive as any craftsman about his work. If you want to make him insanely angry, give him a lead on an important story and then say, "But don't print that; we don't think people should know about it." If you want to make him utterly miserable, point out four errors in the front page after he has read proofs all night until he's cross-eyed. If you want to win his undying gratitude, praise sincerely the editorial he sweated out long after hours, knowing full well only five people read it. His is a passionate desire for complete accuracy, in a hopelessly error-ridden profession; a constant quest for new angles, fresh ideas; a surprisingly child-like pleasure in artistically alliterative headlines, and dry wit in features and editorials, usually too subtle to be appreciated by any but his wife, who has been coached; and a sadistic glee in pointing out the number of press releases and rewrites on his competitor's front page.

A newspaperman is essentially a lonely man, apparently doomed to perpetual misrepresentation. He is forever stereotyped as a hard-drinking, high living, backslapping, tough and aggressive cross between Jack Webb and Jackie Gleason, even though in reality he may be a sober, gentle family man, and just as reticent as the next guy about meeting new people or speaking up in public. As for his role, the people know he is their servant, but seldom realize that he serves them and democracy best when he is most independent of their partisan pressure. He is the unpopular individual who tells people what they ought to know, even though some don't want them to know. His is the historic role of enlightening public opinion; but men with historic roles seldom have good appetites.

It is really only his spontaneous and completely indestructible sense of humor that keeps the newspaperman sane; and yet he is hopelessly addicted to his hectic life. The newspaperman is Truth with a chronic headache; he is Freedom of Information and Opinion with high blood pressure; he is the Champion of Right Causes with darkroom chemical stains on his good clothes; he is Civic Integrity working for half the pay he could get elsewhere, and Honesty coming home very late, very tired. There are times when even his wife can scarcely live with him. But thank God that our country still has the likes of him.

In response to a question, the president said there were two absolutely essential characteristics a person must possess before he can assume a role of leadership at UK. He listed these as an "acceptable academic standing," and "moral responsibility—good character."

Dickey said that leadership at

UK should be the type that wants to put something back into the institution-while still here-not to take something from it.

The idea for the YMCA Leadership Training Course grew out of a realized need for more and better leaders on the UK campus, according to Howard Stephenson, YMCA assistant secretary and assistant secretary coordinator for the training program.

"We had considered the idea for some years previously, and decided to try it this year, in view of the success it achieved at Mississippi State University," Stephenson said.

Joyce Laase, YWCA executive secretary, said the YWCA cabinet conducted an informal survey among the faculty and students to determine the need for a leadership program. She said the training course was begun after the results of the survey showed a "very positive need" for it.

The YMCA group, composed primarily of freshmen and a few sophomores, held its first meeting on March 7. The six-weeks course will end on April 11. Next meeting is Thursday at 7 p.m. in the small cafeteria at Donovan Hall, where Stephenson and Bart Peak, YMCA executive secretary, will discuss Techniques of Leadership.'

The girls' course was open to freshmen, sophomores, and juniors. It will conclude its six weeks

GO, VAN, GOGH!

Once upon a time, when the world was really evil, and a thief lurked behind every bush, cautious men had their shirts painted on! The reason for this is explained by a perceptive saying of those days:

"Forsooth, nothing deters those rapscallions about town. They'll steal anything that isn't buttoned down."

Rough days - particularly for the shirt business, what with painters picking up all the profits. Until, suddenly, an idea of genius appeared. The button-down shirt! Thisshirt was actually buttoned on to the chest of the wearer, making it absolutely steal-proof!

Today, in these honest times, we still feel its influence. It is the true ancestor of that glorious style—the shirt with the button down collar! Isn't history interesting?

Van Heusen-because they know so much about the button-down - has done more with it than anybody else. Take our new line called the Van Ivy, for instance. Here are button-downs in tartan checks and stripes. Van Ivys look marvelous with suits and sport coats, and word open at the neck give you a roguish look. They also have a button on the back of the collar, for authenticity's sake. See them. $4.00 in short sleeve, $5.00 o long sleeves.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

After securing field data, Mac McLeran lays out plans for new and additional telephone services.

Figuring on the future

Thurston B. McLeran, called Mac by his friends, is an engineer with Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company at Decatur, Georgia.

Much of his work is concerned with the future-planning for telephone service to meet predicted demands a year, or five years ahead.

"My biggest job to date," Mac says, "has been engineering additional communications facilities for an airbase and adjoining aircraft factory in our district. This means making field studies of the customer's requirements and planning how new telephone facilities can best meet them. Then I translate this information into working plans for our construction and installation people. It's a big job, and gives me a lot of responsibility. It's challenging work, too, for an engineer."

Figuring on his own future concerns Mac also. He graduated from Georgia Tech in 1952, with a B.S. in .Electrical Engineering. He went with the telephone company because of the advancement opportunities it of--fered. Today, Mac is married and has one child. He looks forward to an interesting career in a growing business where individuals can advance as far as their abilities will take them.

There are many rewarding career opportunities in all Bell Telephone Companies, and at Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. Your placement officer can give you more information about Bell System Companies.

Most unusual item uncovered by the survey is that 83.5 percent of the students are over 21 years of age. In most institutions of higher learning the majority of the students is under 21. Only 16.5 of the students are under 21 and more than 30 percent of the enrollees are over 31 at the center.

The survey was made by the journalism class of the center and was conducted among approximately 700 students.

Another figure that is much higher than the national average is that 51.97 percent of the stu-dents are married. There are 227 veterans attending classes and 53 percent of the total enrollment are male students.

Another oddity is that 37.18 of those enrolled are in the College of Education with the College of Arts and Sciences having a per-Hankins said.

The chief reason for this is the fact that so many teachers in Northern Kentucky are taking advantage of the Center to help further their education, the director pointed out.

The College of Commerce ranks next with an enrollment of 23.47 percent. Engineering has 10.32 percent and the Graduate School. 2.17 percent.

Greatest number of enrollees are labelled "special" students because they are attempting to take classes that will help them with their business or professional work. In Kansas City this weekend, the NCAA finals isn't the only newsmaking event. College coaches are in a big battle over the ONE AND ONE foul rule. Most of them want to do away with it. Talk has it that the Big Ten plan might be adopted. That plan has on each of the first six fouls of each half, committed when the person is not fouled in the act of shooting, only one foul shot will be given. On the seventh foul, the one and one will go into effect. Personally, I favor doing away with the one and one altogether and bringing back the old system-two shots if you're fouled in the act of shooting, and one shot if you're not. But the Big Ten plan is much better than the present

"Grawemeyer is a excellent 'shot in the arm' for our pitching staff because it's the first time he's been able to get in shape before the first of May." In previous seasons. the big left-hander has been with the basketball team right up to the start of the season.

"We're expecting a lot from both Dawson and Host, along with Cookie. We think we've got three good pitchers for our weekends." explained Coach Lancaster.

The baseballers have always had some bitter with the sweet and this year is no different. "Actually," said Lancaster, "our whole infield will be a big problem. Catching will be a trouble spot until Frank Namath gets there after spring football." Other basketball news. Two small, but potent high school cage stars have signed with UK, they being Dave Eakins, Henderson, and Dickie Parsons, Harlan. Both are guards and are 5-10. Eakins is known for his great all-around play as he performed for Henderson's runner-up team in the state tourney last year. Parsons is a good outside shooter and feeds the ball well.

Minnesota became the second team to accept an invitation to the UKIT next year, leaving only one more team to fill the tourney. Besides host Kentucky, North Carolina has signed to play.

In the UK football picture, Wildcat center Dave Kuhn has signed with the San Francisco Forty-Niners. Bob Bennett, Kentucky guard last season, is expected to become the next line coach at Louisville Male.

The Kentucky Rifle team recently finished second in a meet to Michigan. Freshman swimmers and a few varsity mermen are still practicing, hoping to enter an A.A.U. meet at Fort Knox next

Bowling Draws 30 Teams

By KENNY HILL

Thirty teams started intramural bowling play this week at the Wildcat and Blue Grass lanes.

After a round robin schedule, the three leaders in each division play in the tournament. In a match the team with the highest number of pins after two games is the winner.

The highest two game total of the week came in the first division where the KA's had 1,252 pins in their win over ATO. In other first division play PKA edged SN and LXA won over Triangle.

DTD, AGR, and PDT were the winners in the second division. DTD beat PSK while AGR edged SPE, 1082-1078. PDT took the measure of TKE.

Third division play saw SX beat PKT. In other matches KS walloped ASP and FH won over ZBT. In the first division of the independent league, DTD (2) beat LXA (2). ATO (2) lost to BSU (2) and KS (2) walloped SPE (2).

CE and the Newman Club won two games each in the independent second division. CE beat KS (3) and SN (2). Newman won over SN (2) and BSU. The other games saw ASM beat BSU and then lose to KS (3).

SAE Beats Cats

SAE rolled over the previously unbeaten Independent Cats Monday night to win the intramural volleyball crown.

The undefeated champions trailed 6-7 in the opening game, but came back to trounce the Cats, 15-7. SAE took the second contest 15-11.
